Information on Registration as a Doctoral Candidate of the University of Freiburg

The Rectorate resolved on 17 February 2010 to register all doctoral candidates of the University of Freiburg. Thus, university accounts were created for all doctoral candidates who were not already matriculated as doctoral students. The account can be used to sign up for the courses of the International Graduate Academy and take advantage of other services offered at the University of Freiburg.

In order to profit from these advantages early as possible, you will need to obtain acceptance as a doctoral candidate from your faculty, the necessary precondition for registration, as soon as you begin work on your doctoral degree.

In order to register, and thus to take advantage of the services of the Computing Center and the IGA course program, you must first obtain acceptance as a doctoral candidate from your faculty. For information on acceptance as a doctoral candidate, click here:

After receiving acceptance by your faculty, you can register as a doctoral candidate by submitting the certificate of acceptance from your faculty and the application for registration (<http://www.iga.uni-freiburg.de/Kursprogramm-en/1application-for-registration-30.9.11.pdf>) at the Student Registration Office or at International Admissions and Services (IAS). German doctoral candidates register at the Student Registration Office (http://www.studium.uni-freiburg.de/service_und_beratungsstellen/studierendensekretariat) and international doctoral candidates register at International Admissions and Services (http://www.studium.uni-freiburg.de/service_und_beratungsstellen/ias/ias-en). After registering you will then receive a notice confirming that your account has been created. Other roles and existing accounts (e.g., employee) are not affected when your new account is created.

Further information about registration you can find here: http://www.iga.uni-freiburg.de/Kursprogramm-en/registration?set_language=en
